THIS PAPER Farm Journal

ONE YEAR. 5 Years.

PAY UP AND GET BOTH PAPERS AT
PRICE OF ONE.

We want to get 500 new subscribers to our paper, and are going to do it if we can; we therefore continue our arrangement with the Farm Journal by which we can send the News one year and the Farm Journal five years, both for $1.25. And we make the same offer to old subscribers who will pay all arrears and one year
in advance.

You know what our paper is, and the Farm Journal is a gem—practical, progressive—a clean, honest, useful paper
—full of rambling, full of sunshine, with an immense circulation among the best people everywhere. You ought to take it.

THE HOME

"Home is not a place of four bare walls,
And a gabled roof mere space to cover;
But a woman-sweetheart, whose presence fills
Each nook and corner and grace distills.
And a manly husband-lover.
We build our houses from floor to dome,
But fashion by daily lives our home."

CHILDREN ON THE FARM.

They Should Be Treated as Having an Interest.

For a long time I have been studying the question, "Why do so many boys and girls leave the old farm homestead?" After thirty years of observation I have come to the conclusion that it is largely the fault of parents. I should have answered the question differ-ently ten years ago, and laid the blame more on the children, but with a longer experience, particularly in my own family, I have been compelled to place the blame chiefly with the parents. Too often they are not alert enough in trying to keep in touch with the young members of the family.
Somehow they seem to think that the boys and girls are a part of the working force of the farm and are paying, in part, for the trouble and care of the parents in bringing them up from infancy to maturity.
Are not our children a part of ourselves? They know they are, and they feel that they should receive more care and attention than is bestowed upon the cattle and other dumb animals of the farm. Most men are careful of their stock because it pays in dollars and cents.
How much more should they interest themselves in the welfare of their children! My business as a milkman brings me to the city
daily, and I am in a way of noticing the home life of a great many families, the heads of which in many cases, were originally from the country farm. Too many of these are barely eking out a miserable existence while others have already gone to the bad. When I ask these country born people why they left the farm, and if it was because they disliked the work, they often say, "Oh no, I liked farming, but my father used me like the hired man except that he paid his hired men better wages than he was willing to pay me, and seemed more careful of them, when I did full as much work and took more care of things to see that nothing was wasted by neglect." I asked some of these men why they did not have a talk with their fathers and tell them how things might be made more pleasant.
The reply was, "We did, but father said that when he had done with it, we should have it all, so not to worry." One man told me he never could have a team to drive unless some of the girls or his mother wanted to go somewhere, and his father was too busy to take them out.

Another told me that if his father had been willing to pay him as well as as regularly as he paid his hired men, or would have given him a share in the business, or a chance to raise some special crop and have part of the proceeds, he would gladly have stayed at home, but his father said, "No, when I am done you may do as you like,
but I intend to do the managing while I live," and so the son went to the city where he had expected his efforts would be better appreciated, and where individuality would not be wholly merged in another, but he never had lost his love for the old home.

I have in mind a family of boys
where the father never allowed one of them to go to market while he lived. The result was that when he died not one of the sons knew how to dispose profitably of the crops grown. It requires years, not days or weeks to learn business. We should train our children in the financial affairs of the farm while they are still young and eager to learn. I was at a farmers' market in one of our large cities last summer, every day, and saw boys with loads of produce well grown but poorly put up, and badly arranged on their wagons, the result being that they had to sell at from 20 to 50 per cent. below what the same goods would have brought if properly handled in the packing and showing. These boys simply lacked the experience they should have had when young and ambitious to learn. Now some of them seem to feel that they are handicapped, and have rather lost ambition; consequently they are anything but enthusiastic farmers. They say,

"Father thought we knew nothing,
and never gave us a chance to learn."

We do not expect our children to become good teachers or successful bankers without a training for their line of work, but too many of us think that anybody can be a farmer without giving time to learn the business. A greater mistake never was made. Our children should be given a chance to develop their faculties. Take them into your confidence. Play ball with the boys and other games with the girls. Take an interest in their youthful affairs and don't be afraid to seem to be one of them. Live near them and do business with them, as you would with your shop-keeper or blacksmith. They need just that experience. They will doubtless want some things that may seem foolish, but remember they are young, and that it is better to let them have a little leeway now while you are with them to counsel and advise, than to throw them at once upon their own judgment when mature with no previous training.

Children had better make little mistakes now than greater ones later. Do not use your children in such a way as will make them glad when you are going away and sorry when you return. Rather have it the other way, if you would have a happy home for yourself and for them. Perhaps some reader may pronounce me conceited
and imagine that I think I know it all, which I am sure I do not,
but I have been through the mill of experience at both ends, as a boy and the father of boys, and this subject has been burning in my heart for a long time, and I have felt that I must give it expression, and I know of no better channel through which to reach the parents of farm-born children, than through your columns.—New England Farmer.

Economy in Dress.

It is a mistake to suppose that economy in dress means shabbiness. Among women of small means there is too much neglect of personal appearance. They seem to think they cannot look well because they have no money to spend on personal adornment. The happiest people are those who make the best of their circumstances, instead of brooding over their troubles and miseries. If women of limited means would exercise their brains a little, they could soon make themselves attractive at small expense, and a well-dressed woman always feels so much better, and appears so much better,
that it is worth the trouble involved, says the Housekeeper.

A dress should never be worn
when it has passed beyond neatness. It should be made over in a different style, or converted into a gown for one of the children. Poor people cannot afford to be careless with their clothes. They will find that time spent in keeping them in good order is well spent. The most important point, in studying the art of dress, is to know how to select clothes that are in harmony with the surroundings, and with

FOR WOMAN'S HEALTH

Earnest Letters from Women Relieved of Pain by Mrs. Pinkham.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before I commenced to take your medicine I was in a terrible state, wishing myself dead a good many times. Every part of my body seemed to pain in some way. At time of menstruation my suffering was something terrible. I thought there was no cure for me, but after taking several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my bad feelings were gone. I am now well and enjoying good health. I shall always praise your medicine."—Mrs.
Amos FESCHLER, Box 236, Romeo, Mich.

Female Troubles Overcome
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I had female trouble, painful menses, and kidney complaint, also stomach trouble. About a year ago I happened to pick up a paper that contained an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I read how it had helped others, I thought it might help me, and decided to give it a trial. I did so, and as a result am now feeling perfectly well. I wish to thank you for the benefit your medicine has been to me."—Mrs. CLARA STEINER, Diller, Neb.

No More Pain

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your Vegetable Compound has been of much benefit to me. When my menses first appeared they were very irregular.
They occurred too often and did not leave for a week or more. I always suffered at these times with terrible pains in my back and abdomen. Would be in bed for several days and would not be exactly rational at times. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and menses became regular and pains left me entirely."—Mrs. E.
F. CUSTER, Brule, Wis.

the age and condition of the wearer.
It is pitiful to see people trying to dress as well as their rich neighbors, or in styles and colors adopted by women thirty years younger than themselves. Quiet dressing should be the rule for those who cannot have many gowns. Variety can be obtained by adding ribbons, laces, vests, and jackets to the plain gown.

Good garments should never be crowded into a closet. Heavy clothing should never be hung over them. Hats and bonnets should be dusted after wearing, the bows and ribbons straightened out,
and then they should be carefully
put into boxes prepared for them.
Veils and ties should never be put away until carefully dusted and folded. Soiled ribbons never should be worn. Wash them in alcohol and water, then, instead of ironing them, stretch them upon a board and wipe them gently with a soft cloth until dry. Never put shoes away dirty. Wipe off the dust, smooth out the wrinkles, and bend the soles straight. Do not throw them into a closet, but stand them up. Pull your gloves straight, and lay them away without being folded. When a garment is no longer fit to wear, do not leave it with others, but clean it carefully, and put it away in a box kept for the purpose, until needed to make over.

CHICAGO CLUB'S PRESIDENT

Mrs. Arthur Edwards, From the Literary Department, Elected.

Mrs. Arthur Edwards, the new president of the Chicago Woman's club,
says she was not a seeker for her present honors.

Mrs. Edwards has been a clubwoman for 20 years. She began her work in women's organizations in the Every-Monday club and found it easy enough to step from that small but hardworking organization into the ranks of the newer ones.

Mrs. Edwards enjoys the distinction of being the first president to be elected from the art and literature department of the club. "It has been the general impression," said Mrs. Edwards, "that this department represented the dilettante element, that the women in it were given over to self indulgence in study, but they really have done much active work. For instance, they have spent money and time in forming circulating libraries and in promoting the study of music in different social settlements. It was owing to the efforts of this department also that $1,000 is being expended in that little triangle of ground on the North Side. This step, the women hope, is but the initial one in gaining for less favored quarters of the city attractive breathing spots where the poorer Chicagoans may find coolness

and comfort on hot days."

Hair Dyes.

In regard to hair dyes, the best advice is, don't use them. Not because they are injurious, for many are perfectly harmless, but because dyed hair is not likely to be half so becoming as white or gray hair when one reaches the age for it or even if it comes prematurely.

There are exceptional persons, however, to whom gray hair is unbecoming. For their benefit this prescription is given: Boil an ounce of galls and two ounces of iron filings in a pint of vinegar until the quantity is reduced one-half. The hair should be washed in soap bark before applying the dye with a comb, after which it should be dried in the sun. The dye will have to be applied once a month to keep the hair dark.

Almost any hairdresser has dyes that are effective and safe and will apply them more skillfully with less danger of getting them on the scalp than one can possibly do for oneself.—Philadelphia Times.

Broken Brie-a-Brass.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The multitudes who use this standard article
know that it is many hundred per cent. better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why.
The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits.
Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $2.75 per pound and another costs $2.25 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent
pieces of cheap and useless materials,
by the addition of cheap and odoriferous
and some cases altered slightly in color and odor Major's cement, retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a inferior article you can depend upon it that his only object is to make a larger profit.
The profit on Major's cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement.
And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr.
Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5000 a month, throughout the country.
Established in 1876.

Trust on buying Major's. Don't accept any off hand advice from a druggist. If you are at Leather Cement. And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save.

forwarded by mail; either kind. Free of postage.

The Mother and Teacher with the Child.

The following paper was given at the Oxford County Teachers' Convention, last spring by Martha A. Gibson, and by the request of the superintendent of schools in Bethel, she submits it to the public through the Bethel News:

I have taken this as my subject, it being one that has troubled me greatly ever since taking up Primary work. I may on some points be severe, but to me it is a vital question taken from the mother's standpoint, also from the teacher's and must be seen to right away if we expect anything from the growing generation. Of course, by this time, you all wish I had never appeared before you in this capacity, and I am very sure I never shall be called upon to do so again, so I am going to ask you to hear me through this time.

Please bear in mind that what I say to you I say in good part and for the benefit of the child, and that the ones I am talking about are wholly confined to my town.

Mothers, I want to talk with you for a little, presuming you are the mothers of my children.

Mothers, do you realize what you are doing when you send your little ones to school for the first time? Do you know what you are trusting that sweet, tender flower with? Do you realize what a gift God has placed in your keeping, what you are responsible for? Here is a little life given to you to be molded. Before it lies the light of the right, the beautiful and the true, and also the night of vice and sin.

Now, to the parent is confided this great and sublime trust. Shall those eloquent and wondering eyes meet smiles, sweetness and ineffable love on every side, while the little soul is in its most plastic state? Shall they behold frank, brave, and noble actions, and shall those little ears, attuned to catch every passing sound, hear tones which are gentle and kind, words which are pure and true, thoughts at once lofty and brave, or shall the reverse of this darken, harden, and poison a being, that shall leave its impress on many lives in its passage to the other world? I am afraid the reverse in many cases.

When we see the treatment so many mothers give their little ones, we can but think of this. More than one-half of the little ones, these days, are brought up on the streets, with not one word from mother from the time they leave home in the morning until they come in at night; you do not know, you cannot know whether they are in school or not, and it does not matter if they are only out of your way. I ask you, do you wonder that things are just as they are to-day, at home or abroad? It seems to me that so many of the mothers of to-day feel like this: "I have brought the child into the world; that is all that is required of me; the teacher and the general public may do the rest." These are the mothers that come to us teachers and say, "What do you do with Johnnie? I cannot make him mind, or his father either," but we are expected to do it; not only to make the child mind, but to make a little gentleman of him. If I were a mother and had to admit that I could not govern a six-year-old child, I would not let it call me, mother.

Let me, right here, as a teacher who has had quite an experience with children, give you a suggestion on this subject of government. Keep your little ones with you, or at least know where they are for a few minutes in the day, and keep them busy; you know that the people that have been and are busy, are what makes our country what it is to-day, and "men are only boys grown tall." We teachers know that the child who behaves the best, is the one who comes to us from the farm. "Why?" do you ask? Simply because they are at home and have work to do. Work is the salvation of us all.

How many of you know whether the one to whom you send your child is worthy to be called "teacher"? It is for you, as mothers, to find out about these teachers and see if they are morally and spiritually qualified to fill their places. How can you do this? By visiting our schools; if you can not find time in any other way, give up your club work, and, as of course there is more or less laid upon all the members of these clubs, I suggest that you mothers give up these duties to the "old maids," widows and mothers that have brought up their children, and look out for the welfare of your child while you can. I do not wonder, you cannot wonder when you stop and give these matters any thought, that so many children curse their parents when they become men and women. I only wonder there are not more.

On the other hand we can thank God that there are good and true mothers, mothers that fully realize what it means to be a true mother. I had one of these mothers, and I thank God every day that he gave me such an one, she showed me what the word mother conveys in its fullest term, even if she did, as many say, "make a slave of herself," for her children, not one of them but what blesses her in their womanhood and manhood, and many a famous man or woman has given his mother the credit for making him what he is, and without doubt the credit goes where it belongs. It is the early impressions of mother and home that mold the soul more than anything else, and when we can establish this fact in the minds of our people, a civilization higher and nobler than all preceding ages will dawn in the world.

When you remember that your child is destined to bless or curse the world, to be an upward or downward influence in the sea of complex influences that bear humanity on, what question, problem or thought arises to such commanding height or can in any measure compare with this?

And another thing to thank God for is that there are some teachers ready to sacrifice themselves for these little ones that are hungering for a mother's love and attention; I know that a teacher with forty or fifty of these little ones cannot spend much time with one alone, but remember they are at that age when they are impressionable, hungry for something good or bad whichever it may be; think my fellow workers, especially those in the Primary work, what rests on us. Do we realize the responsibility we have undertaken when we take up this work? Do we take it home to ourselves enough that we are helping make the child's life good or bad, that we are reflecting in them what we are. Are we capable of the task we have taken upon us, to help mold these little lives into the men and women we shall be proud of in after years?

Many times when I go into my room and look into the dear little faces, innocent little things, ready for any impression, I stop and question myself: Am I worthy the place I fill, and I sometimes wonder if I am good enough for it. But I do feel this way, if I can keep the child busy and happy and make him love me (and it is the duty of every Primary teacher to so love the little ones that they cannot help loving their teacher) if I can do this, they cannot do much wrong, and I do try with my limited supply of busy work to do it. I know it is a question and a tax upon the teacher, but it is your duty if you are to make a teacher of yourself, to study and find the need of each child. You say this is a task, so it is, but what have you taken the stand as a teacher for if you are not willing to work? not merely for the money I hope. If you have, you must sooner or later step down from your position as a teacher and give your place to one more worthy to fill it.

When we can be brought to realize "that a fate of a nation" rests with us as teachers, then we shall try, perhaps, to do our whole duty at all times and in every place, and until we can do this, we need not wonder if we are not sought for, and we cannot expect to be called to higher things by Him who said, "Thou hast been faithful over a few things I will make thee ruler over many."

Have I been hard on you, mothers and teachers? I am sorry if I have, but something must be done along this line and right quick. We must begin at home and in the Primary schools. I think you will agree with me that I have spoken the truth, and the truth will bear condemnation. I am so far from being the kind of a teacher that I have tried to picture to you that it troubles me, and I shall change my position as a teacher as soon as possible. The only redeeming feature about me is, I know my faults, but I do feel, and I know that my fellow work-

LEATHER CHAIRS.

It can be said with truth that every man who does not own a large leather covered easy chair wants one.

The possession of one of these choice, serviceable and rich chairs is not such an unattainable thing as one might think.

We are prepared to show you good, large and luxurious ones at exceedingly reasonable prices. They can be depended upon to be just as we represent them to be—your satisfaction is guaranteed.

ers feel the same, that we should do much better work if the mothers would help us more.

To me it seems so much to be a mother, and next to the mother comes the teacher. Let us as mothers and teachers, see that God's plans are carried out in training these little ones. Let us look to the little ones; spend every moment we can with them; teach them unselfishness, gentleness and loyalty to truth; educate their minds and their souls.

I think my feelings are best expressed, in regard to children, in the beautiful poem written by Dickens, entitled, "The Children," and I am going to draw this paper to an end by reading it, thinking perhaps you will forget the hateful things I have said and remember only the sentiment of the poem.

When the lessons and tasks are all ended,
And school for the day is dismissed,
And the little ones gather around me,
To bid me good night and be kissed:
Oh, the little white arms that encircle
My neck in a tender embrace!
Oh, the smiles that are halos of heaven,
Shedding sunshine of love on my face.
And when they are gone I sit dreaming
Of my childhood too lovely to last:
Of love that my heart will remember,
When it wakes to the pulse of the past.
Ere the world and its wickedness made
A partner of sorrow and sin, [me
When the glory of God was about me,
And the glory of gladness within.

Oh, my heart grows weak as a woman's,
And the fountains of feeling will flow
When I think of the paths steep and stony Where the feet of the dear ones must go;
Of the mountains of sin hanging o'er them,
Of the tempest of Fate blowing wild;
Oh! there is nothing on earth half so holy
As the innocent heart of a child.
They are idols of hearts and of households;
They are angels of God in disguise;
His sunlight still gleams in their tresses,
His glory still gleams in their eyes;
Oh! those traits from home and from heaven
They have made me more manly and mild;
And I know how Jesus could liken
The Kingdom of God to a child.

I ask not a life for the dear ones,
All radiant as others have done;
But that life may have just enough shadow
To temper the glare of the sun;
I would pray God to guard them from evil,
But my prayer would bound back to myself;
Ah! a seraph may pray for a sinner,
But a sinner may pray for himself.

The twig is so easily bended
I have banished the rule and the rod;
I have taught them the goodness of knowledge,
They have taught me the goodness of God.
My heart is a dungeon of darkness,
Where I shut them from breaking a rule;
My frown is sufficient correction;
My love is the law of the school.
I shall leave the old house in the autumn,
To traverse its threshold no more;
Ah! how I shall sigh for the dear ones,
That meet me each morn at the door!
I shall miss the "good nights" and the kisses,
And the rush of their innocent gleams,
The groups on the green, and the flowers
That are brought every morning to me.

I shall miss them at morn and at eve—
Their song in the school and the street
I shall miss the low hum of their voices,
And the tramp of their delicate feet,
When the lessons and tasks are all ended
And God says, "The school is dismissed!"
May the little ones gather around me,
To bid me good night and be kissed.

MARSHALL DISTRICT.

Carlton Saunders has been sick but is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Andrews and two children, visited her father, Isiah Hazelton, last Wednesday, and all attended the dedication of the new hall at North Waterford.

Abel Andrews called at George Briggs' last Tuesday, and bought his large horses.

LOCKE MILLS.

A. S. Cole of Albany, was in this place, recently.

Mrs. Ann Libby is visiting her son in Fall River, Mass.

Walter Swift is getting on finely with his new barn; he had an old-fashioned raising, recently.

Mr. C. Fred Farnham and wife of North Rumford, visited his brother, W. H. Farnham, the 24th.

W. H. Farnham is away from home on a business trip to the northern part of New Hampshire.

Miss Edith Emery sent a box of moss, filled with four hundred white roses, to Miss Lillian Luce of Auburn, for her wedding. They were placed on an altar before which the marriage took place, and decorated it beautifully.

Dr. Carroll of Bryant Pond, was on Howe Hill Sunday, to see Mrs. Emma Felt and the family of Wesley Cole. Mrs. Felt is sick with liver trouble, and Mr. Cole's family have the whooping cough and measles; some of them are very sick.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Emery and Miss Edith Emery gave a surprise party at their home Monday evening, June 18th, to his brother, R. E. Emery, it being his thirty-third birthday. There were between thirty and forty present, and a general good time enjoyed. Ice cream and cake was served.

Our village school closed last Friday, June 29, after a nine weeks session, and the teacher, Miss Maud Merrow, has returned to her home at West Bethel. There were eight scholars who were not absent one day: Walter Herrick, Serena George, Ethel Vance, Arthur Stowell, Arthur Herrick, Orville Bryant, Alice and Tom Brown. Considering the epidemic of whooping cough and measles we think it worth mentioning.

Percy Farnham and Mrs. W. H. Farnham went to Auburn, Wednesday, June 20, to attend the wedding of Mrs. Farnham's niece, Miss Edith Lillian Luce and Mr. Ernest Sturgis of Boston. When they came home Thursday, Mrs. Farnham's sister, Mrs. H. R. Foster of Denver, Col., and her brother, J. W. Emery of Malden, Mass., with his little son and daughter, and Harry Farnham of Everett, Mass., came with them. Mrs. Foster is an invalid and Mrs. Farnham went to Denver and took her East for her health in August of last year. She is the wife of H. R. Foster, for merly of Albany.

Diphtheria relieved in twenty minutes. Almost miraculous. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. At any drug store.

WEST BETHEL.

"Not a flower But shows some touch, in freckle, streak or stain. Of his unrivaled pencil. He inspires Their balmy odors, and imparts their hues. And bathes their eyes with nectar, and includes In grains, as countless as the seaside sands. The forms with which he sprinkles all the earth; Happy who walks with him! Whom what he finds Of flavor or of scent, in fruit or flower, Of what he views of beautiful or grand In nature, from the broad majestic oak To the green blade that twinkles in the sun, Prompts with remembrance of a present God."

Independence Day.

July is the month of roses this year.

Good weather for killing weeds and drying hay.

Griffith B. Lowell is enlarging his barn.

Mrs. Jessie Eastman of Cornish is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ordway.

Miss Rosa Bean is in very poor health, but is thought to be slowly improving.

Miss Maud Merrow's school at Locke Mills closed last Friday.

Miss Flora Jane Wheeler is once more at home from her school in Jefferson, N. H., to enjoy her vacation with her parents.

Excursion trains are now running every Sunday, east and west, carrying country people to the seaside and city people to the mountains.

Charles Wilson and Edgar Ladd came up from Portland, Sunday, and spent the day with friends, and Mrs. Wilson, who had been visiting here for a week, went back with them.

ANDOVER.

Rev. and Mrs. Jackson of Providence, R. I., have arrived at French's for the summer.

The invitations for the Congregational church Centennial have been sent out, and as the time draws near much interest is being felt in its success.

The Sunbonnet Sociable at the Town Hall, was a most happy success, and many quaint and pretty bonnets were displayed on the heads of pretty girls and young ladies. Ice cream and cake were served in the lower hall.

The death of Mr. Wm. Akiers occurred Friday, June 29. His mind had been slowly failing and he was discovered hanging by the neck in the barn, thereby taking his own life. He was one of the oldest members in the Congregational church, and his loss is mourned by a large circle of friends.

The graduation exercises of the Andover High school were held at the Town Hall, Saturday, June 30. The hall was beautifully decorated in the class colors, yellow and white, and all the arrangements were well carried out. The hall was filled to overflowing with friends and relatives and all interested.

During the terrible storm of Thursday morning, the house of Mr. George Abbott was struck by lightning. No damage by fire was reported. It knocked the bottom from the water barrel, and then crossed to the barn and killed same sheep, but no further damage was done.

Hon. Henry V. Poor's baronial hall was opened Tuesday afternoon to entertain a goodly number of friends and relatives at five o'clock tea. This room has an immense fireplace, using wood seven feet in length, and mantle one huge piece of solid granite. The furniture is ancient, cabinets of handcarved black oak, ponderous tables and chests from Holland and England a century old. At one end of the room, are two large antlered heads of elk and moose. Mr. Poor has done a great deal for Andover in many ways, and we all rejoice to find him as hale and hearty as ever. May he and his wife live long to enjoy their beautiful home here, and help Andover to prosper.

You assume no risk when you buy Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. G. R. Wiley, Bethel; A. S. Bean, West Bethel; W. H. Crockett, Locke Mills; J. W. Bennett, Gilead; A. R. Small & Son, Bryant Pond, will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using it. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant, safe and reliable.

NORWAY.

Rev. Caroline Angell of the Universalist church, preached at West Paris Sunday afternoon.

Miss Emma Stevens has been at Andover, attending the High school graduating exercises.

The firemen observed their monthly meeting Monday evening. The whole department was out and a short spin was taken with the reel.

Robert Bickford is at home to spend the Fourth. He is surveying with an engineering party at Rumford Falls and has a flattering position.

Smith's shoe store has been removed to more convenient quarters in Geo. Noyes' block. A large stock will now be carried and everything is being done to make this store modern and first-class in all respects.

Over one hundred and fifty views of Cuba were exhibited through a powerful stereopticon at the Universalist church Tuesday evening. The scenes portrayed native life as it really is and brought that interesting island to our very doors.

Business is booming along the shore and on the islands of the lake. The cottages are occupied; boating as a sport reigns supreme, and picnic parties in Gibson's grove are of weekly occurrence. Thus far, the pleasure seekers are as abundant as at any time during the previous years.

Dr. Thompson's tomb in Pine Grove cemetery is progressing finely. This massive cut granite structure with polished pillars is a fine addition to the appearance of the cemetery and is intended to prove a fitting resting place for the family when their short mission in the material is finished.

NEWRY CORNER.

"Grandpa questions: 'Now couldn't those boys Have quite as much pleasure with little less noise?' Says mamma: 'Well, now, I'm happy to see My children so happy; but—oh dear me!'"

Papa declares, laughing: 'Whew! I shall be glad When Fourth of July is over, my lad! Says pretty Aunt Sue: 'I know I shall cry!'"

A day to be dreaded is Fourth of July! And as for our boys, hear what they say And what they think of this glorious day.

"Why, Fourth of July, with its frolic and noise Was made on purpose for us girls and boys."

Merton Holt is to cut the grass on Chas. Powers' farm.

Miss Verna Kilgore has commenced the study of music.

Miss Annie Doherty will spend Fourth of July week at Roxbury.

Miss Nellie Howard is entertaining friends from New Hampshire.

There will be a dance at Bisbee Hall on the evening of the Fourth of July. A welcome to all.

The subject of the Sabbath discourse by Rev. W. H. Congdon, may be found in Deut. 29:29.

Little Doris threw down a mass of daisies, saying: "Oh, grandma, there's pounds and pounds where I got these!"

An unusually pleasant and instructive term of school under the tuition of Miss Maenette Little hale, closed last Friday.

Our people have all been cordially invited to celebrate the Fourth of July at North Newry. An oration, a free dinner, horrors and other attractions are offered.

The last meeting of the Ladies' Union Circle, at Mrs. John Saunders' was well attended. The pastor and his wife joined us for the first time since their arrival. The next meeting will be on the afternoon of Friday, July 6, with Mrs. T. H. Jewett. All are cordially invited.

The Patrons of Bear River Grange at the last meeting received an application for membership. A sister was obligated in two degrees; the third and fourth degrees were conferred upon two persons, thus admitting them to the full privileges of our order. Later, ice cream and cake were served.

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C. It may be a question whether the editor of the newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack, much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years.

An Epidemic of Diarrhoea.

Mr. A. Sanders, writing from Coconut Grove, Fla., says there has been quite an epidemic of diarrhoea there. He has a severe attack and was cured by four doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says he also recommended it to others and they say it is the best medicine they ever used.

For sale by G. R. Wiley, Bethel; A. S. Bean, West Bethel; W. H. Crockett, Locke Mills; J. W. Bennett, Gilead; A. R. Small & Son, Bryant Pond.

Repairing Promptly Done.

An Important Test.

Your Life May Be Prolonged by Applying It.

Do you realize the importance of the Kidneys and Bladder? When diseased they make a lot of trouble—tear down the system and create gravel (stone in the bladder). Women often suffer from so-called "female weakness," when their trouble really lies with the Kidneys and Bladder. Try this test. Put some urine in a tumbler. Let it stand twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment, a cloudy or milky appearance, your Kidneys are sick. If you are obliged to urinate often, especially during the night; if your urine stains linen, if you have scalding pains in passing it, if your back pains you, your Bladder and Kidneys are diseased; you should at once take the greatest of all Kidney medicines, Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. It has cured the most distressing cases; it will cure you. It corrects the bad effects of beer or whiskey, will cure old and chronic cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia and acts gently yet promptly on the Bowels. Favorite Remedy is sold for one dollar a bottle at all drug stores.

You may have a trial bottle of Favorite Remedy with a pamphlet of valuable medical advice sent free by mail post-paid, by sending your address to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., and mentioning this paper. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this liberal offer.

BROWNFIELD.

Mrs. John Greenlaw of Limington, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Albert Blake of this village.

D. Stinson Patten is still very feeble, but is thought to be slowly regaining health and strength.

Mr. Fred Fogg is yet at home, suffering from injuries received at the paper mill in Westbrook several weeks ago, and it will be some time before he is able to return to his work.

The East Lynn, Mass. Lodge, I. O. O. F., report the case of Wm. Beckford, a member of Pequawket Lodge, as yet quite critical. Mr. Beckford has been very much of an invalid for more than a year.

Miss Anne Spring Lynch of Washington, D. C., is the guest of E. B. Bean at Maple ridge cottage, and is much of an invalid. She has Miss Maria Mansfield of Brownfield, as an attendant and companion.

J. L. Frink, Esq., enumerator in Brownfield district for the tenth census is nearly through with his work, and thinks the count will fall a little short of that of 1880, also the number of farm-buildings less than formerly.

If rumors are to be relied upon, the Central House in this village is to be occupied soon, but the name of the party renting it is not made public; many guesses are made who the party may be, and yet all may be far from correct.

The republicans of Brownfield held a caucus Saturday, the 23, and selected F. N. Stone, L. R. Giles, and Hiram Gatchell as delegates to attend the county convention at South Paris, July 3, and for State convention at Bangor, L. R. Giles, Hiram Gatchell and A. F. Johnson were elected as delegates.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Broad, who forty years ago were residents of Brownfield, but now residents of Compton, N. H., were in town visiting his sister, Miss Olive Broad and other former friends. Mr. Broad's father, Amos Broad, was a resident of Brownfield prior to 1800.

An unusual dish that is seasonable is fried asparagus. The tender portions of the stalks are cut into inch lengths, boiled for about five minutes in salted water, drained, dipped in beaten egg, then in bread crumbs and fried in hot lard. Parsley, also fried, is served as a garnish. A white or Hollandaise sauce should be sent around with the dish.

A woman was elected town treasurer of Fairplay at the recent municipal elections in Colorado. Another one was chosen town treasurer of Como and another was elected town clerk of Creede. In Silverton women were chosen treasurer and clerk, both on the Citizens' ticket. The Democrats elected all the other officers.

In boiling fish, you may judge whether or not the fish is done by trying with a thin knife if the fish easily divides from the bone when it will be ready to remove from the water. If left in the water too long, it loses its firmness. It should simmer, not boil, as otherwise the outside will break before the inner part is cooked.

Some of the new skirts are made with a silk drop skirt which has a ruffle of the material like the gown. This is made just long enough to clear the ground, so it is a simple matter to hold up the outside skirt.

NOT REVERSIBLE.

One Decision That the Supreme Court Couldn't Alter.

In the good old days when Judge Gaslin sat upon the bench in a district that comprised the western half of Nebraska, the rustler, the horse thief and the killer abounded. Judge Gaslin was aware that there was but one way to rid the country of these pests, and that way was to make it too hot for them. Accordingly Judge Gaslin, when one of them was put on trial, admitted evidence that was sometimes "incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial," but as it was generally true that if the prisoner was not guilty he had been guilty of something equally bad Judge Gaslin let it go at that and clinched the prisoner on general principles. The result was that the supreme court reversed a good many of the judge's cases.

During these perilous times an atrocious murder was committed in Adams county and the perpetrators were soon captured. The evidences of guilt were plain, and the two prisoners were soon pronounced guilty and sentenced to be hanged. But as several notorious characters had recently been allowed to escape by the supreme court, the people of Adams determined to forestall anything of that kind by quietly lynching the prisoners. The two men were taken from the jail and hanged to a railroad bridge east of town.

The bodies were left hanging to the bridge, and next morning Judge Gaslin sauntered out that way to take a look. He gazed on the swaying bodies for a few moments without saying a word. Then he turned to a friend and remarked:

"I sentenced those two fellows to be hanged. That's one decision that I fear the supreme court won't reverse."

THE REPORTER'S METHODS.

Marked Difference From Those of the Orator, Preacher and Novelist.

Probably not one reader in a hundred has paused to notice that a newspaper article is written on a plan just the reverse of that of a sermon or oration. Comparatively few ministers have analyzed the subject sufficiently to notice this fact, and their ignorance of it will often account for the reluctance of newspapers to accept matter contributed by them. It is worth the while of every man and woman to know the general plan on which newspaper articles are written, for almost everybody desires at times to announce something through the press. The mere knowledge of the theory will not make a successful writer in this or any other department, but it is the first step.

The skillful preacher or orator usually reserves his most important points until toward the end of his discourse, closing with a climax; the skillful newspaper reporter puts his climax into his first sentence and ends with the most nonessential detail. While the novelist secures his dramatic effect by keeping the secret of his story hidden as long as possible, the reporter attains success by revealing his secret as quickly as words will let him. Both are working on principles as clearly defined as that on which a sonnet is constructed, but the modern newspaper article is of so much more recent date that few critics have analyzed it, and even many of the best New York writers work daily upon the foregoing principle without knowing it. No man can work many days under a metropolitan city editor without learning it.—Chicago Christian Advocate.

Dishes That Break.

The crying demand of the times is a dish that will not fall out of a girl's hands and break. Women who keep help in their kitchens do not make the complaint of broken dishes more often than the woman whose daughters "do the dishes." As soon as a man gets a half dollar saved it has to go for a meat platter or a pitcher which his daughter dropped, and there probably isn't a family engaged in housekeeping that doesn't have to make weekly visits to a queensware store. In some homes the daughters are fined for very plate they break, but the father has given them the money to pay back to him in fines, so that he is always the loser. If a man is put in good humor by his dinner, the crash of china heard from the kitchen ten minutes later drives his good nature away.—Aitchison Globe.

The Wedding Ring.

Many believe that the loss of a wedding ring means that the husband's love will be lost in turn. If the ring is broken, the husband will soon die. In Ireland it is a general belief that to rub a sore with a golden wedding ring will cause it to speedily heal. The wedding ring is supposed never to tarnish, and if it does become dim it is said to be a warning that love also is tarnished and dim.

A Treacherous Jewel.

If a faded turquoise be dampened, its color is temporarily restored. The orientals utilize this quality by carrying a stone in their mouths and deftly slipping it into their hands to display it. Dealers in Meshed guard against such deceptions by retreating a stone a few days before purchasing, as the turquoise is the most treacherous of jewels.

A German savant says dying is a perfectly easy and painless process. Consciousness, he says, ceases in nearly every instance before the heart stops beating.

Chinese Names.

In China there is no fixed nomenclature—even the country itself is without a name—and this lack of distinct and recognized appellations was a frequent source of difficulty. Of personal information from natives there was none obtainable on which any credence could be placed. A Chinaman, unless he be a porter cooly or a boatman, rarely travels or gets during his life more than a few miles in any direction from the place where he was born. When trying to procure information concerning the immediate locality, it was no uncommon thing to have a native, and even sometimes men of local position, say, "Oh, I have never been so far away as that," or, "I have never been across that hill and so do not know what is beyond."—Harper's Weekly.

WHEN THE JOBBERNOWLS WENT TROUT FISHING.

COPYRIGHT, 1899, BY CAROLINE WETHERELL

Once the Jobbernows went fishing, some early trout to catch. 'Twas from Mother Goose's frog pond they thought the fish to snatch. With their fishing rods and boxes of the finest painted bait. Down they sat beside the water for some hungry fish to wait. In that pond there lived a family of very stylish frogs. Much admired for their manners and their loud and shrill "kerchooga." When these spied the fishing tackle dangling through the water brown, All the frogs, amazed, inquired, "What is this that's come to town?"

Swimming up to solve the mystery, froggies were amazed to see Hans and Bess and Wong and Tessa, Ole, Pat and French Marie Sprawling down beside the water, each a fishing rod in hand. Waiting for the happy moment when they hoped a fish to land. Now, the place to go trout fishing is some little mountain brook. Knowing this, each frog laughed loudly in his lily sheltered nook. "It would be great fun to foot them," said a lively nolliver, "For a fish to let them capture, say, a great big ugly log."

So the frogs beneath the water tied a log to Ole's line. Ole felt the rod a-tugging, thought 'twas something supreme. All the Jobbernows, excited, offered help to land his fish. "If they help, they'll want to share it; it will make a dainty dish!" So the greedy, greedy Ole tugged and struggled long in vain. And the log sprang quickly upward—there's no need to more explain. Ole tumbled back much frightened. All the others gave a shout, Pleased that Ole thus was punished and would get no dish of trout.

Jim and His Brother.

The car remained at a standstill for so long a time that every one wondered if something were wrong. It was soon seen, however, that a sturdy little urchin was very tenderly helping a lame child aboard, and as the car moved on his cheery "goodby" called a smile to the cripple's wan face.

The latter seated himself so that he could look out of the window, and every few minutes he waved his hand at some one on the street. The other people in the car became curious and, looking out, saw a little fellow running along the sidewalk.

"Who is that?" asked a lady of the lame boy.

"Why, that's Jim," was the proud response.

"Yes, dear, but who is Jim?"

"Why, Jim's my brother, of course."

By this time every one was listening and smiling in sympathy.

"Oh, I see," said the lady; "that's the boy that helped you on the car. But why does he not ride with you?"

"Why," he said, "we only had a nickel, and Jim said I must ride. You see," he added after a pause, "I can't walk well, but Jim, he can run fine."

"See! What is this?" the lady said. With eyes big with delight the child caught up a 5 cent piece that had miraculously appeared in his torn little cap that lay on the seat between the lady and himself. And then with frantic gestures he hailed Jim, who boarded the car at the next corner.

It would be hard to say who was the happiest on that car during the remainder of the trip, but surely the boys thought that they were.

A Horse Banquet.

Horses were the sole guests at a recent dinner given by a company of English men and women who journeyed from London into the country for the sole purpose of entertaining their four footed dependents.

The scene of the banquet was the Home of Rest For Horses, Friar's Place farm, Acton.

The menu included chopped apples and carrots and slices of white and brown bread mixed with a few handfuls of loaf sugar.

There are 43 horses at the home—23 of them in the "old favorite" or "pensioner" class—and two donkeys. The most famous inmate is Bones, an old charger of the Horse guards, who survived the battle of Tel-el-Kebir and was afterward bought by Dorothy Eady, the artist, who used him as a model. He has been in the home six years.

The Owl and the Katydid. Still was the night, and the woods were still, Sing heigh, sing ho, my honey!

When the owl and the katydid chatted away In a fashion quaint and funny, Sing heigh, sing ho, my honey!

Said the owl, "I called on the moon this eve;" Sing heigh, sing ho, my honey!

But a voice from below chirped, "Katydid too." Now, that was exceedingly funny! Sing heigh, sing ho, my honey!

"I sung to the moon," said the owl in glee; Sing hoot, sing hoot, my honey!

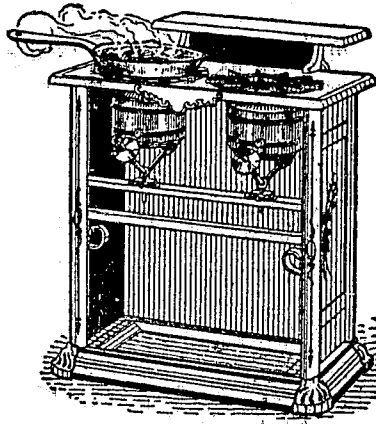

But the other said, "Katydid, katydid, too!" Sing heigh, sing ho, sing katydid! Sing heigh, sing ho, my honey!

Then all again in the woods was still, Sing heigh, sing ho, my honey!

And the moon peeped over the eastern hill; Now, isn't my story funny? Sing heigh, sing ho, my honey!

JOHN ROBERTS' PRIZE AND HIS FATHER'S CHANGE

It was the middle of a bleak afternoon in winter. From the scholars in the little clapboard schoolhouse in Maple Hollow district rose a buzzing hum as they bent over their desks intent on books or mischief. The teacher, a good looking young woman of about 20, was busy with a class in geography when a shrill voice called out:

"Teacher, John Roberts is reading a story book."

"Bring the book to me," said the teacher quietly, and the delinquent, a boy of 14, slowly rose and, walking to her, placed a worn volume in her hand. "Why," she said, glancing at the page, "it is 'Ben-Hur.' No wonder you are interested. But you must not read during school hours."

"YOU MUST NOT READ DURING SCHOOL HOURS."

"I know I oughtn't, mum, but I wanted to see how the race came out so bad."

The teacher smiled. "Well, I will let you take the book after school. Then you can read it at home."

"Oh, no," he whispered. "Father won't let me read story books."

"Surely he would not object to this. However, I will keep it until recess tomorrow. Never fear—Ben-Hur will outwit the crafty Messala."

The wistful eyes brightened, and, with a grateful smile, the boy returned to his desk.

"First class in spelling, take your places," called the teacher.

John Roberts belonged to this class, as did all the larger scholars, among whom was his sister Dora, two years his senior. The teacher had promised a prize at the end of the term to the member of the class obtaining the largest number of head marks, and consequently a good deal of interest was taken in the lessons.

John had been at the head of the class the afternoon before; therefore he now took his station at the foot. Dora, his sister, was head, and for some time no change in position was made. But finally some one blundered, and John, who was one of the good spellers, went up the long line. Another word was missed, and John walked to the head! Dora pushed by him spitefully.

"Another mark, John," said the teacher; "for that is the end of the lesson."

The class resumed their seats, and a few minutes later school was dismissed for the day.

It was evening. Dora Roberts and her mother, having cleared away the supper table and made the needful preparations for the early breakfast, entered the large room adjoining the kitchen, which served as sitting room for the family and bedroom for the parents. Mr. Roberts not permitting a fire in any other room in the house.

All were silent, for to have spoken while father was reading would have been an unforgivable offense. At last, however, Mr. Roberts lifted his eyes from the paper and, addressing Dora, said, "Well, how did you get along at school today?"

"Oh, first rate," said the girl, but that last head mark rankled in her mind, and she added, "John was called up by the teacher."

"How was that, John?" said his father sharply. Poor boy!

The boy glanced reproachfully at his sister. "I read a little in 'Ben-Hur,' father. It's a good story book."

"Never mind what it is. I send you to school to study, and you're not to touch any but your schoolbooks."

John carried a heavy heart to school the next morning. He felt almost as bitter toward "the Roman" as Ben-Hur, in whom he was interested, but when at recess the teacher offered him the book he did not take it.

"Father said"—he began, then choked. The teacher understood and after a moment's silence said, "I am interested in 'Ben-Hur' as well as you, John, and if you will sit here I will read to you."

In all his life John Roberts never forgot those readings at intermission, which were continued not only until 'Ben-Hur' found his mother and sister and he saw the Christ perish on the cross, but to the end of the book. His gratitude to his teacher would certainly have become love had he been a few years older. As it was, when the term closed not even the prize as the best speller—a beautiful copy of "Ben-Hur"—consoled him for the closing of school.

A brighter future awaited him. When he brought the book home, though his father at first refused to touch it, he finally began reading it, and so deep was the impression it made on him he changed his mind about all story books being trashy. He saw things in a different light and to a degree permitted the members of his family to choose their own methods of recreation.—Fred O. Sibley in Housekeeper.

How to Make Peppermint Lozenges.

Put two ounces of water in a smooth enameled saucepan and add a pound of granulated sugar. Set it over the fire and allow it to nearly boil, stirring it continually. Do not let it boil, but remove it from the fire just as the bubbles begin to rise to the surface. Allow the sirup to cool a little, and still continue stirring it. Add strong essence of peppermint to suit the taste, then drop the sirup on sheets of oiled confectioner's paper or on tin sheets, and let them stand in a warm place for a few hours to dry. To color the lozenges, add a few drops of carmine to the sirup and stir it well through.

CZAR AND SHAH.

A Russo-British clash in Persia should at least give us some musical Lalla Rookh war map names with which to offset the Boer tongue twisters.—St. Louis Republic.

It is quite possible that we are to have an interesting sequel to the peace rescript of the emperor of Russia and that the coming conflict between Russia and England is not far distant.—Chicago Record.

Both Russia and England have always frankly admitted that an Anglo-Russian war of supremacy in India is bound to come at some time. It is reasonable to suppose that it shall be precipitated by the government which sees a sudden advantage too great to be ignored.—St. Louis Republic.

The ardent solicitude for the amity of the shah is due to the mobilization of a Russian army on the Afghan frontier and the confessed intention to occupy Herat at an early day. Having explored all the routes to British India, the czar has decided to mark his baggage "via Persia."—Philadelphia Times.

Summer Waists and the Things to Make Them Of.

All around the light-well,—that looks down from the cloak room to the first floor—are grouped and displayed countless styles of new and dainty Shirt Waists of White Lawn, of Percale, Madras, Scotch Gingham, Pique and every best waist-making cotton fabric.

Just a little distance from them is a counterful of Beauty Silk Waists of Taffeta, Satin, Jap, Foulard and other Silks. The prices are surprisingly low.

For the many who prefer to buy the goods and have their waists made to order the east corner of the first floor presents these attractions.

Organdies.
Made in Germany, where it's as easy to make color harmony as music harmony.
First they weave a fibre as thin as as political platforms, then they print it full of flowers and ferns, and buds, and leaves, natural enough to fool a bee.
Some of these have satin stripes.
12 1/2, 25, 37 1/2

Mercedized Foulard.
If Silks could only secure a "walking delegate" to organize them, they'd strike and forbid the making of these foulards, for they are taking the bread out of silk worms' mouths. The Foulards out-silk the silkiest silks. Twenty styles at 35c
Another lot at Colored Swisses, 25 and 35c

Colored Taffeta.
This is what we have been leading up to, for it is the roast beef of our Colored Silks.
More than a hundred color tints. Since we began selling them at 75c the manufacturers have put their price up, no matter, we will still sell them at 75c
Send for Samples.

Black Silk.
The largest stock in Maine and the most complete.
Black Taffeta Silk, 30, 75, 85, $1, 1.12, 1.25, 1.50.
Black Cheney Foulards, 24 inch, $1.00.
Black Satin Duchess, 75, $1.00 to $2.50.
Peau de Soie, $1.00, 1.25 up to $2.00.

Pine Apple Tissue.
Very sheer, much like a spider's web for lightness. Prophetic of August, 50 and 60c

Plain Black Satine.
For dress linings, petticoats, etc. Lustrous, good weight, 25, 20, 35c
Lining Lawns plain colors, 12 1/2c

Wool Challies.
Polka dots, figures and stripes, cute and chic, 37 1/2, 50, 65c
Silk and Wool Challies, 50, 80c

SILK for WAISTS.
Kaiki.
The Japanese (those yankees of the orient) have a "gift" for weaving their silks.
These Japanese Kaiki Silks are washable; they have a firm, round cord running through them for strength and beauty.
Forty styles, 50c
Those without the cord are 35c

Silk Madras.
The English call them "Silk Gingham," nice for waists. They measure one yard wide. Seven styles, 75c

Linen Gingham.
Cool, comfortable, ideal for hot days, looks like silk, will wear better. They come out of the laundry with a winsome smile, 35c

French Satines.
Not Massachusetts Trench, but Lyons, France. The silky finish is both beautiful and permanent.
Many handsome effects, 37 1/2c
Another line, plain, with self-colored dots, for waists, 35c

SOUTH PARIS.
Master Frank Miller of Portland is visiting friends in this village.
Children's Day services were held in the Methodist church last Sunday.
Mr. Pearl Ripley began work in the machine room of the Paris Mfg Co., last week.
The college students of this place, who have been away to school all the spring, have returned for the summer vacation.
Notwithstanding the fact that the town now employs a night watchman, the boys intend to celebrate the Fourth in the good old fashioned way.
The Paris Mfg. Co. has erected a large new dry house for long lumber, and intends to build an enormous shed in the yard for sheltering more of the same.
A rather one-sided but well played base ball game took place upon the Durdal field last Saturday afternoon between the Norway and the local teams. The score of 13 to 4 in favor of the home team.
There are two interesting ball games booked for the Fourth. In the forenoon the Norway and Sled Factory nines will play on Durdal field, and in the afternoon the Free Masons of the two towns will cross bats on the fair ground.
Parsons' orchestra had a rehearsal at McArdle's music store last week, at which time a lot of the up-to-date and classical music was tried. In connection with his large assortment of music, Mr. McArdle has a beautiful array of picture-frames, the manufacture of which he has already fitted up for.

SUNDAY RIVER.
C. D. Bean is on the sick list.
Eric Stowe has gone to Portland.
Sanford Brown has gone to Canton on his wheel.
Mrs. Fred Mundt and little son George are visiting at H. M. Kendall's.
C. B. Foster and family of Everett, Mass., arrived at their summer home last Saturday.
Mrs. Della Sheppard and daughters Bessie and Mildred, are visiting Mrs. Sheppard's mother, Mrs. Sarah Jackson.
Last Thursday evening, a social was held at the home of Mr. H. M. Kendall, for the benefit of Rev. W. H. Congdon. A large number of people were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent with music and games. Refreshments of candy, peanuts, and lemonade, were served, and quite a sum of money was received after all expenses were paid. Mr. and Mrs. Kendall are to be congratulated for furnishing everyone such a pleasant entertainment.
Miss Ames' school closed last Friday. A merry party of twenty-five, consisting of teachers, scholars, and parents started for a hayrack ride to Ketchikan, and on the way, increased the number by taking people from their work in the fields and woods, until more than thirty-five sat down to a picnic dinner in the yard at Mrs. Stearns'. Threatening showers kept them near shelter but some of the more venturesome ones visited Camp Brockton. Andrew Jackson took the grown folks in his hayrack, while Grover Brown gallantly escorted a party of little folks in his two-seated wagon. Everyone declared they had the best time possible and returning cheered at all the houses on the route.

J. O. Tenney of Gorham, was in town Friday, with his usual assortment of goods. It is his first trip up here this summer.
Miss Matilda Charvin and the Misses Valence came down from the Lake Friday, to visit Mrs. Guy Brooks. Mrs. Brooks returned with them Saturday, for a few days.
NORTH ALBANY.
Philip Rolfe was at home over Sunday.
Alonzo Tyler visited his sister, Mrs. Morrell, recently.
Fred McLeod has bought the Farwell lots of Mrs. Bean.
Louisa Bennett is spending her vacation, from the shoe shop, at home.
Mr. Harry Fernald visited at Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Mason's, a short time ago.
Alanson Tyler is at home for a few days. He plans to go to Yarmouth haying, soon.
Mr. and Mrs. Mason are visiting his parents and other friends in this State and in New Hampshire, at the present writing.
We learn that the Paris Mfg. Co. has purchased all the land owned by George Leighton in this town, and will build a mill in the near future.
